

Are Social Justice Warriors (SJWs) Daleks?

Anyone who watches the show Doctor Who, knows the Daleks are to be feared. But for those unfamiliar with the show, I will explain what a Dalek is.

A Dalek is a fictional, highly intelligent, genetically-modified being which has had all of its emotions taken away except hate. As a result, the entire Dalek race has only one goal, to ethnically cleanse the universe – to “exterminate” all non-Dalek life. Pretty scary yes?¹

But wait, how does a fictional, alien race bent on genocide have anything to do with many of today’s Social Justice Warriors (SJWs)?

Though it is true the SJWs do not either promote or commit mass genocide or partake in any ethnic cleansing activities, the way in which they handle views that they see as “bigoted” or “intolerant” could be compared to a forceful subversion or even an intellectual and ideological cleansing initiative. In the face of opposition, the average SJW will try to “exterminate” any opposing view. This is because, just like the Dalek view on race, for the SJWs it is not good enough to just agree to disagree and live in harmony with various viewpoints there must be an “extermination” or subversion of ideological differences.

Atop this, it must be noted that Daleks cannot be reasoned with, since they are genetically programmed and incapable of either empathy or sympathy. Though SJWs are capable of emotions other than hate, many of them are so indoctrinated into their view of the world that they lack the ability to see any other side in a disagreement. Thus, they prefer to write-off people who disagree with them as being “bigoted” or “intolerant.” This is what makes both Daleks and SJWs so dangerous, one to other inter-galactic races and the other to differing ideologies and worldviews.

Some examples of SJWs engaging in this intellectual genocide or forceful subversion of ideological and worldview differences are as follows:

- Christian bakery forced to close because they refused to bake a wedding cake for a same-sex wedding:

- The province of Alberta under the leadership of the New Democratic Party passes Bill 10 which stipulates that all schools must have a Gay-Straight Alliance (GSA), even if ideological disagreements are present in the institutions:

- The province of Alberta under the leadership of the New Democratic Party releases guidelines for mandatory LGBTQ policies in all schools, parts of which stipulate the allowance of a child to choose their own identity (gender) and use the washroom they identify with. Once again, even if ideological disagreements are present in the institutions or by those who use the facilities:
 - <http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/edmonton/guidelines-released-for-mandatory-lgbtq-policies-in-alberta-schools-1.3402154>

All of these examples reveal a complete and utter disregard for any view that may be in opposition to the SJW movement. Little to no dialogue ever took place before these decisions were made and fair and valid criticism of these decisions are being ignored or purposefully devalued through labels such as “bigoted” and “intolerant.” As a result, it is clear to me that there is no room for discussion or even disagreement in the SJW agenda.

Therefore, even though Daleks may be fictional, much of their ideological framework, inability to see other points of view, zealousness, and desire to “exterminate” may be actualized in some form by SJWs.
